GOVERNOR ROBINSON AT REVIEW. THE FIRST DIVISION OF THE NATIONAL GUARD OF

THIS STATE ON PARADE. The First Division of the National Guard, State of New-York, was reviewed by Governor Robinson yesterday afternoon, at the Worth Monument in Fifth-ave. A large stand was erected near the mon ument to accommodate about 300 persons, but tickets had been issued for many more than that number, and it was overcrowded while many, holding tickets were turned away. A detachment from the 7th Regiment guarded the stand, and 200 policemen under Captain Williams kept the avenue clear. The Gate City Guard, of Atlanta, Ga., was placed on the front of the stand. Among those present were Mayor Cooper, the Mayor of Atlanta, Collector E. A. Merritt, General Carr, Republican candidate for Secretary; General Abraham Duryea, General Wood, and Colonel Briggs, Acting Inspector-General. Governor Robinson, accommanied by his mounted staff, drove down Fitth-ave, in a carriage, without any demonstration from the crowd. Major-General Woodward, the Adjutant-General, came with him to the stand.

without any demonstration from the crowd. Major-General Woodward, the Adjutant-General, came with him to the stand.

The military procession was preceded by a squad of mounted police. General Shaler, commanding the Division, followed, his staff taking position, mounted, next that of the Governor, while he rode at the Governor's side. After the Separate Troop of Cavalry and the Gatling Battery, came the Third Brigade, General Varian, consisting of the 7th Regiment, 10 companies of 24 files, 69th Regiment, 10 companies of 16 files, the 8th Regiment, 8 companies of 16 files, wearing the new gray overcoats issued by the State, and Battery B. The First Brigade, General Ward, followed, consisting of the 22d Regiment, 10 companies of 20 files, 5th Regiment, 8 companies of 12 files, whose band and bugles played different tunes at the same time; 12th Regiment, 8 companies of 16 files, also with the new overcoats, and Battery K. General Vilmar came next with the Second Brigade, which comprised the 71st Regiment, 8 companies of 16 files, whose drum corps was the only one to salute the colors in passing; 11th Regiment, 9 companies of 16 files, wearing helmet hats with cavalry plumes; 9th Regiment, 10 companies of 20 files, and the 3d Regiment of cavairy.

The marching was good, notably the 7th Regiment, which the Georgia Guard, lately its guests, loudly applanded; and after it the 9th Regiment. Governor Robinson raised his hat at the approach of the colors of each regiment. At the close of the review he drove away in his carriage, accompanied by General Woodward. A call for cheers met with a feeble response.

THEFT OF A COUNTY'S DOCUMENTS.

Considerable excitement was occasioned in Somerset County, N. J., yesterday by the suspicious disappearance of a number of county documents. For several years great dissatisfaction has been felt at the state of the county's financial affairs, and last June a committee of prominent taxpayers was appointed to collect subscription and employ counsel for the purpose of having a thorough investigation made. Formal application was made to Judge Dairimple for permission, and this being gained, a committee of investigation was duly apgained, a committee of investigation as and ap-pointed and began to take testimony six weeks ago. The committee had before it the vouchers of the Board of Freeholders and other county docu-ments for the last two or three years only, it being at first considered that the investigation would be limited to this period. After Damel Cory and sev-eral other members of the Board had given their limited to this period. After Damei Cory and several other members of the Board had given their testimony, however, there was a rumor that the committee intended to go through the back records. These were stored in the Somerset County Bank, Somerville, the president of the bank, John Veghte, being also County Collector.

At 9 o'clock on Wednesday evening, when the colored watchman of the bank went on duty, he found both the front and the back doors of the building unsecured. He did not report the circumstance, however, and nothing was heard of any attempt to enter the bank until yesterday morning, when the president offered a reward of $500 for the arrest and convection of the person or persons who had stolen the county records from the bank on the previous evening. This announcement created excitement. The documents missing include the records of the county for twenty-live years, and the vouchers of the Board of Freeholders for tweive years.

Nearly two years ago The Tribune published an migrant found "a most worthy and affectionate widely circulated in the West and hundreds of letters have been received by Superintendent Jackson, from anxious bachelors, widowers, widows and maidens, from all parts of the country, beseeching him to assist them in finding "better-balves." Some of the letters are very amusing. One was received recently from Helena, Mont. The writer says: "I am a divorced widow. That may mean much, as it may mean little. I am in no way afraid to present the reasons before a man with the amount of sense I should hope a husband of mine would have. I am therty-four years old, weigh 160. amount of sense I should hope a husband of mine would have. I am thirty-four years old, weigh 160 pounds, 5 feet 4 inches in height, am well educated, and have always been accustomed to good society. I feel in every way qualified to make a gentleman with comfortable or luxuriant means most happy in his home. The gentleman with whom I should like to correspond, I should hope would not be older than fifty; still, some at sixty are no older than others at hifty. I admire a pority man, fine-looking rather than handsome, and a possessor of at least $50,000."

CARRIAGE-MAKERS TALKING AND DINING. The seventh annual convention of the Carriage-Builders' National Association was held yesterday at the Metropolitan Hotel. About 159 members were present, and Henry Killam, of New-Haven, Conn., presided. The treasurer reported the funds of the association as being in a floarishing condition. John W. Britten, a member of the firm of Brewster & Co., and chairman of the committee appointed at the last meeting of the convention to consider the formation of technical schools for the education of carriage mechanics, after the plan of those now in operation in France and Engthose now in operation in France and England, reported that the committee have made great progress. Several sums of money have already been contributed to further this project. This association started seven years ago. There are nearly 25,000 manufacturers of carriages in the United States. The officers elected for the ensuing year are: John W. Britton, president; C. Studebecker, of South Bend, Ind., vice-president; Wilder H. Pray, of New-York, secretary and treasurer. At the annual dinner last evening toasts were responded to by Peter Cooper, ex-president of the association, Henry Callam, the Hon. Phineas Jones, of Newark, and others. McLeod, pastor of the Reformed Church at Hudson, N. Y. Several members of the committee and others spoke warmly in praise of Dr. McLeod as a man, a minister and a pastor. The report was unanimously adopted, and a committee was appointed to offer the pastorate of the Church to Dr. McLeod at a salary of $6,000 a year. ary of $6,000 a year.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT THE SCHOOLS. The Beard of Education vesterday received the first report of City Superintendent Jasper. The monthly report to October 1 shows a registry in the Grammar and Primary schools of 127,480 pupils, with an average attendance for September of 115,377, the largest monthly attendance ever reported. The evening schools for the week ending October 10 show an enrolment of 11,688 scholars, with 269 teachers and thirty-one principals. At a previous meeting a report was received from the trustees of the Twentieth Ward, accusing Nelson J. Waterbury of procuring a list of pupils who were to be promoted, and after giving copies to his friends, asking them to visit the parents of these children and instruct them where to send their children, thereby migring the reputation of Grammar School No. 48. The report proposed taking legal steps "to prevent in the future the repetition of this scandalous outrage." A long letter was received from Mr. Waterbury denying the charges, accusing the trustees, Alexander Staler, J. E. M. Lordlev and C. F. Teitjen of "disgraceful conduct which tends to discredit their office," and demanding an investigation. The matter was referred to the Committee on Course of Study. ported. GREAT RISE IN BREADSTUFFS.

Yesterday was another exciting day for breadstuffs, and although there was a general advance in prices, it was authoritatively affirmed that the movement was almost entirely speculative, as there was only a moderate export demand. Flour advanced from 15 to 25 cents above the closing prices vanced from 15 to 25 cents above the closing prices of Tuesday. In wheat, the Winter grades formed the feature, and advanced from 3 to 5 cents a bushel early in the day, afterward declining about a third of the rise, with heavy speculative transactions, Corn was from 3 to 5 cents a bushel higher, with heavy trading in options and a moderate demand for spot. Oats were from 1 to 1½ cents higher, with an active demand, and rye from 2 to 3 cents a bushel higher, which was offered sparingly even at the advance. The grain trade resolved to have a third call on grain at 4 p. m., each day, excepting Saturday, and to appeal for a change in the rules to make the call official. This is the first time for a third call in grain at the Produce Exchange, but as New-York is virtually an independent market, the merchants feel warranted in trying the experiment. trying the experiment.

SUSPICIONS OF MURDER EXPRESSED. John MacManus, a tailor about sixty years old, was found dead in his room in the rear tenement at No. 113 West Thirtieth-st., on September 19. His wife had died some months before and the neighbors had died some months before and the neighbors said she had left him about $5,000 which was willed to her by a sister. MacManus had the reputation of being a miser, although he frequently drank liquor to excess. After his wife's death a woman called Rosa kept house for him and treated him cruelly at times when he was intoxicated. Coroner Woltman and Dr. Cushman made an examination. Dr. Cushman believed that the man had died from the effects of intemperance, and no inquest was held. Stories have been in circulation that MacManus was murdered. John D. Denny, a tailor of No. 268 West Thirty-fourth-st., called at the coroner's office and said that he had made inquiries about the death of MacManus, who had been in his employ, and he believed MacManus had been murdered for the money which he was believed to have hoarded.

THE CITY AND STATE CANVASS. INCIDENTS AT REPUBLICAN HEADQUARTERS.

SATISFACTION OVER THE RESULT IN OHIO-CALLERS AT THE ROOMS.

There was a meeting of the Republican State Committee yesterday in the rooms at the Fifth Ave..ue Hotel. Reports were made from the different districts of the State, and in all instances were as favorable as the most sanguine member of the committee, it was said, could desire. Mr. Corneli's majority is piaced by shrewd Republican politicians at from forty to sixty thousand, and some members of the committee say they would not be surprised if it touches 80,000. It was noticeable yesterday that the news from Ohio had a bracing effect, and produced a tendency to put up the New-York majority. 67 Madison-ave. The members of the committee are: William P. Letchworth, of Buffalo, president; J. H. Van Antwerp, of Albany; Edward C. Donnelly, of this city; and Dr. Charlos S. Hoyt, of Albany, secretary. A resolution was adopted in regard to the manner of conducting the investigation, and the charges made by H. De B. Clay were read. The persons interested will be heard without conjugated and in the presence of the committee only. In the afternoon the committee only. In the afternoon the committee visited the House of Refuge, it is probable that the meetings will be held there.

Israel C. Jones, Superintendent of the House of Refuge, stated to a Thinton Feperter that he was ready and auxious for the fullest investigation, With regard to Mr. Clay's comection with the House he had nothing to say further than the fact that Mr. Clay held the office of Assistant Superintendent from August 1, 1878, to March 7, 1879. He then resigned, giving no reason for so doing. Mr. Jones added: "We are here as an institution charged with grave charges, and it should make no difference to us whether these charges come from the most worthy or unworthy source. Without finding fault of discrediting the origin of these questions, we desire to answer them all in the fullest manner."

The House of Refuge is under the management of the Society for the E. farmather and a majority of 43 on joint balled. The Legistration in Brooklyn meant Democratic fraud, we may be proportionately will be poiled in this State as in Oblo. A large and enthusiastic assemblage of the Republicans of the Seventh Ward and adjoining portions of Brooklyn, gathered last evening in the "Wigwam," at Classon and Putnam-aves., in that city, to listen to an address upon current campaign issues by Frederick Douglass. It was his first speech in this canvass. Notaccount of the circumstances in which a female im-migrant found "a most worthy and affectionate it was crowded to the limit of endurance; husband" at Castle Garden. The story has been the words of the speaker held the attention widely circulated in the West and hundreds of all for nearly two hours. Many of the audience, numbering thousands of persons, were ladies. Upon an easet standing on the platform was a fine portrait of Mr. Cornell, engraved in steel and richly framed, Among those present were William Ray, W. L. B. Steers, E. D. Berri, Alderman Rowley, Justice Fisher, ex-Judge Cooke, E. R. Kennedy and W. H. Waters. After a quar tette bad sung a stirring campaign song, Mr. Douglass was introduced by E. R. Kennedy as "the most eloquent member of a race which was never disloyal." He was received with three oheers.

This is my first first speech in this campaign, he said and if this were an ordinary campaign I would not be here. If only the ordinary questions of banks, finance and tariff were involved, I should not be here. Some things settle themselves, as Carlyle says, and finance is one of them. Resumption is secure, thanks to John Snerman (applause) and the Republican party, and the credit of the Nation is an enduring foundation.

You are fortunate in the part you are to take in this canvass; fortunate in the unity, harmony and fellowship of the National Republican party to which you belong; thrice fortunate in the unitopies embodied and commended in the platform adopted in your State Convention, and in the honorable names insertibed on your State teket, good men and true, every one. Tae honored name of A. B. Cornell is well known to the whole country. He is a man to be commended with confidence and honored for a record without a biot. He is above reproach and suspticion, and improves upon acquaintance. I know him well. There may be more brilliant men—men who are better taikers—but there is no better worker. With his coolness, his good jurgment, sobriety of thought, and executive ability, he will make a good Governer. [Applause] The bow of slander has be n drawn against aim, but no weak place in his political armor was found, it is said that he is a "machine" politician. That wang phrase may mean something or notianz. If if means that he advocates order, precision and recutarity in politics, it is high praise. Mr. Cornell is a man who has never betrayed or descried either his party or his country. As in religion, so in politics, no man can serve two masters. He cannot be both a Democrat and a Republican. Whise our Government is a republic a mast be ruled by one party or another, and the majority must deede. No one man can same control of either party or government. No man can work too hard or effectively for a good party or against a bad one. [Applause.] Men this canvase, continued Mr. Douglass, is us relation to the contest in 1850. It is not deciding merely who will be divocrnor of this State, but what kind of a President you will have for the four years from March 4, 1881. I am here to entreat you to stand by the record of the past. Tae election on November 4 is vasily important. It will decide between the barbarism of the South and the kindness and forbearance of the North, which shall make the laws, saape the destiny and control the You are fortunate in the part you are to take in this canvass; fortunate in the unity, harmony and fellowship

GOVERNOR ROBINSON SERENADED.

HE ADDRESSES A CROWD FROM THE BALCONY OF THE HOTEL BRUNSWICK. Governor Robinson was serenaded last night at the Hotel Brunswick by the Young Men's Democratic linb, with Graffala's 7th Regiment Band. In reply, he addressed from the hotel balcony a crowd of several thousand persons that nearly filled the street in front of the hotel on Fifth-ave., from Twenty-rixth to Twentys venth-sts. There were present on the balcony Adju-tant-General Woodward, L. B. Faulkner, ex-Mayor Wick ham, Corporation Counsel Waltney, Police Commissioner Morrison, Colonels Robinson and Campbell, and others of the Governor's staff, W. L. Scott, E. A. Turrell, E. L. Parris, N. J. Waterbury and E. K. Apgar. The Governor's remarks were interrupted several times by a boisterous crowd near Twenty-sixth-st., who mentioned John Kelly, the National Guard, and Governor Robiusol in a somewhat mecherent manner.

John Kelly, the National Guard, and Governor Robinson in a somewhat incoherent manner.

Governor Robinson was introduced by Townsend Cox, as "a man that cannot be caloled oy flattery nor intimidated by threats." Governor Robinson said:

"I thank you most heartily, my fellow-citizens, for this pleasant and friendly call. Of course it is not an occasion for a speech, and you will not expect one. I came here solely to discharge a simple but most important official duty, which was to review the First Division of the National Guard of the State of New-York. It is proper for me to say that the review more than met my highest expectations. It has shown a degree of improvement in the discipline and efficiency of the National Guard that brings it nearer to perfectlon, as I be teve, than any other organization of citizen soldlery in the world. It is an honor to this great city, an honor to the State, as well as an honor to the Nation. It will be a happy hour for the citizens of this metropolis, when every department of its municipal administration can show the same perfection and fieldity that prevails in the National Guard. I thank you agala for this mark of attention to myself; in bidding you good night let me also wish for you and your fellow-citizens of the property and happiness that follow upon wholesome laws and their good administration."

Lester B. Faulkner was their introduced, and said: "Fellow-citizens of New-York, the few words that I shall say on this occasion, will not be perfinent to the great subject that is engrossing public attention. I have come here simply to pay my respects to the first citizen of our State; and I do it with a teeing of pride that be is a member of the great party which has centrusted me, however unworthy, with its leavership; and I fees proud of his character as shown through public trials for four years. I have witnessed with admiration the excellent discipline and manifest high character of the either soldiery of the State that were reviewed to day. [A voice, 'They are all right.

RICHMOND COUNTY DEMOCRATS. The Richmond County Democrats met yesterday in the Richmond County Hall at Tompkinsville, to make their nominations for county officers. The Hon, Erastus Brooks presided. After the roll-call a scene of disorder and wild uproar ensued, occasioned by an attempt to fill a vacancy occurring in the delegation from Middletown. The chairman lost all control of the meeting, and called upon Sheriff Brown, who was himself one of the noisiest delegates, to assist him in keeping order The Sheriff ail at once grew very zealous, and said he would keep order if it cost him his life. The Convention finally settled the matter before any blood was spilled. Mr. Brooks, with tears in his voice, read a long paper defending his course at Syracuse, when he voted for defending his course at Syracuse, when he voted for General Slocum instead of Governor Robinson. His address was also a lament over the disunion in the Democratic ranks, and it closed with an effort to encourage his constituents to hope for victory.

Toward the close of the meeting one of the disappointed candidates for Sheriff held forth to an overflow meeting (overflowing with beer) about the treachery of another candidate, which led to his rulin. He stated that only sixty-three of the delegates were honest, the others having all been bought up at $25 apiece to vote for some other candidate for Sheriff than himself. He said, further, that somebody in New-York effered him $1,000 on Tuesday to "pull out" of the canvass and help one of his rivals. This accusing member did not seem to obtain much sympathy from his brethren.

The nominations of the convention were: Assemblyman, S. R. Brica—opposed by Erassin Brooks and three others: Sheriff, Thomas Brown; County Treasurer, John R. Roonseon; Justice of Sessions, Charles K. Taylor; Coroner, John K. Ambrose. Daniel Dempsey was nominated for Superintendent of the Poor in the Town of Castleton, where, it is said, there is no vacancy.

THE RIVAL DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEES. A quiet and subdued feeling was noticeable at the rooms of the Robinson State Committee, in the st. James Hotel, yesterday. Visitors, as a rule, refrained from speaking of Ohio, as a discreet perso would from mentioning the faults of a man at his funeral. The committee officers were not, however, paralyzed by the blow, or outwardly affected. If any-thing they worked harder than usual, and there were numerous callers, including Senator Eaton, of Connecti ut; B. S. W. Clark, State Superintendent of Publi Works; Edgar K. Apgar, John McKson, W. L. Scott of Pennsylvania, member of the Democratic National Committee; Colonel Tracey, Scott Lord, jr., ex-Mayor Wickham, Colonel James E. Jones, of Steuben County, and Henry A. Tilden, brother of Samuel J. Tilden, The Kedy State Committee at its headquariers in the St. Nicholas Hotel, keeps persistently as naro at work as possible. D. Gale, Augustus Schell and Colonel Wood.

WESTCHESTER GREENBACK TROUBLES. The County Committee of the National Greenback and Labor Reform party of Westchester County held a meeting at Mayer's Hall, White Plains, yesterday. The proceedings were beisterous and pro-tracted. An attempt was made to repudiate the nomination of Samuel Conover, the Greenback Congressional candidate, because he "affiliated" with Tammany Hall, but it failed. It was resolved next to ask S. W. Johnson, the Democratic candidate for State Senator in West-chester County, to withdraw, and to allow the fight to lie between the Republican and the Greenback candidates; then, it was said, the struggle would be be-tween the people and W. H. Vanderbilt's money. The unpleasant part of the insinuation is intended to hit the

A match game of cricket was played on the Union Grounds yesterday, between Daft's English eleven and the League Providence base ball team, assisted by other expert ball players. The Americans, eighteen players in all, went first to the wickers, and were retired after making a score of 62 runs, of which George Wright batted well for 20. The Englishmen then went in to defend the wickets against the bowling of G. Wright and Sorague. They succeeded in scoring 107 runs before being put out. This is the smallest score they have made in America. The base ball players could do nothing with the effective bowling of Bates and Emmett, and were quickly retired, in their second inning making only 27 runs, leaving the Englishmen victorious in one inning by a score of 107 to 89.

THE RACE ON CHAUTAUQUA LAKE TO-DAY,

MAYVILLE, N. Y., Oct. 15 .- The attendance of strangers to witness the race between Hanan and Couriney to-morrow is very large. The weather is very fine, with only a very light breeze blowing. The condition of the contestants is first-class in every respect, and their appearance on the lake to-day was bailed with The course over which the race is to be rowed has been buoyed, and every arrangement for the acommodation of spectators is being pushed forward rapidly.

Sweat-boards, wheels of fortune, and every other con celvable appliance known to the gambling fraternity have been set up here in large numbers. There has been some selling of pools at $100 to $75 in favor of Hanlan At one time to-day this sort of thing has been stopped. The Sheriff informed Messra, Quimby and Forbes, the seilers, that a continuance would subject them to ar rest. It was understood that both Haman and Courtney had requested Mr. Blankie, the referee, to demand of the District-Attorney that a stop be put to pool-selling. The pool-sellers were hadgenant. The other kinds of gambling were not stopped, although it was generally under stood that they would be. Steps the action of the Sheriff to-day, however, there has been a revival of the betting. The odds of $100 to $50 and $55 in favor of Courtney were taken freely. What arrangements were made, or what force was brugget to bear upon the authorities, is a secrif, but certain it is that the restrictions placed upon pool-selling were removed. Sweathboards, etc., flourish unrestricted. The last pools reported were at the rate of $500 on Hanlan to $390 on Courtney.

The arrangements for the race are all completed. The first gun will be fired at 3 p. m., the second gun at 3.40 p. m. The race will be started as soon after 4 p. m. as possible. had requested Mr. Blackle, the referee, to demand of

STOLEN FROM AN OPEN SAFE.

MERRITT TRIMBLE'S LOSS OF BONDS. THIEVES STEAL A PACKAGE EXPOSED TO VIEW BY ME. TRIMBLE'S SIDE—THE LOSER'S CURIOUS LACK OF CAUTION.

Bonds of the value of $28,100 were stolen resterday from the safe in the office of Merritt Trimbie, an iron merchant in the Coal and Iron Exchange, by three strangers who came, apparently, on business The robbery was not discovered till several hours after, ward, when it was too late to ascertain whether they had been negotiated on the street, or not. The police have no clue to the thieves.

Mr. Trimble is a wealthy man, well known in business and social circles. He is treasurer of the Roosevelt Hospital Society. The report of a robbery at his office in broad daylight and in his presence seemed so strange that at first it was received with incredulity in the building and among those who knew him. The office is room 50, on the fourth floor of the building, which is at the corner of Cortlandt and Church-sts. Mr. Trimble was busy at his desk, discussing a matter of business with a customer, between 12 and 1 o'clock, when a with a customer, between 12 and 1 o'clock, when a stranger entered and put a question about the price of certain goods, which Mr. Trimble, turning and facing mm. answered. From his present recollection of the stranger, Mr. Trimble says blat he was rather stout, well-irossed in dark clothes, and had a dark brown beard that partly covered his face. Waite he was yet speaking two other persons, unknown to Mr. Trimble, entered, apparently in search of something. A nod of recognition passed between them and the first comer, and supposing that they were friends waiting for this man, Mr. Trimble pand no attention to their movements as they strolled about the room.

Having answered the questions put to him Mr. Trimble turned to the gentleman besale him and resumed the discussion interrupted by the stranger's entrance. Close by his side was the sate, standing wide open. The office was open also. Though Mr. Trimble, deep in the subject engaging his attention, noticed that the three strangers ingered, apparently uncertain whether to go out or not, he gave them no lurcher though. They did not speak to him again and finally went out together.

More than an hour passed before Mr. Trimble became aware that he had been robbed. In one of the compartments of the safe, exposed to view as it stood with open door, had been lying a package of bonds. This was gone. Nething cles had been fouched. The numbers and denominations of the stolen bonds were known, and measures were taken to so, the negotiation of them. But concurs time had elapsed for the thieves to sell their plunder. It was too late then to learn if they had done so aircady. It was 6 o'clock before the police were informed of the robbery by Mr. Trimble himself, who with his orother, George T. Trimble, visited Police Headquarters, and told the story of the robbery to Capitalin Kealy, the chief of the detectives. Officers were at once set at work to trail the theeves. If possible, by means of the meagre description furnished by Mr. Trimble, twin to he means the mean test of t work to trait the threves, if possible, by means of the meagre description furnished by Mr. frimble, wao was unable to recall the appearance of either of the two men who joined the first caller and probably did the actual

The stolen bonds were registered as follows: Twenty bonds of $1.000 cach, 5 per cent, of the Burlington, Cedar Rabids and Nortoern Railway Company, Nos. 1,124 to 1,143; cir.ht $300 bonds of the same kind, Nos. 5,779 to 5,786, and ote $1.000 bond, No. $,331, also of the same class; four $1,000 Alabama State bonds of 1892.

Mr. Trimble was rejuctant to talk about his loss, when seen by a Trimble's reporter last evening at his house, No. 59 East Twenty-fifth-st. He expressed the hope that the sale of the bonds could yet be stopped. His story of the robberty is told above. The janutor in the Coat and Iron Excanage building heard toe first report of the roboery when inquiries were made of him at night by reporters. Stranger still, at the Twenty-seventh Precent Polico Station, next door to that building and Mr. Trimble's office, utter Ignorance of the roboery prevailed as late as 9 o'clock.
